

PARLEYS OPEN AT FRISCO TODAY

Platform Conferences Start With Arrival of Glass

PREPARE FOR BIG FIGHT

Wilson Forces and Bryan Expected to Clash

SAN FRANCISCO (By United Press)—Platform conferences are to begin here among Democratic leaders immediately after the arrival late Wednesday of Senator Carter Glass of Virginia. Senator Glass, who is slated to head the resolutions committee, is reported bringing with him the draft of a platform bearing the approval of President Wilson. Glass conferred with Wilson at the White House before leaving Washington. Glass' arrival still stimulates interest in the three platform planks concerning which there may be disputes before the resolutions committee—the league of nations, prohibition and the Irish question. William J. Bryan has served notice that he will fight the administration on the league of nations. He declared that the Democrats dare not desert the country on a league plank unqualifiedly endorsing the league as President Wilson submitted it to the senate. Leaders who are here predicted that Bryan will be decisively defeated in the resolutions committee and that a plank will be adopted based on that written by the Democrats of Virginia.

VIRGINIA PLATFORM
The Virginia platform uses this language with reference to the league: "We advocate prompt ratification of the treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity." Bryan also wants a plank affirming the party's support of national prohibition. In that he is to be vigorously fought by wet forces headed by Gov. Edwards of New Jersey, who is seeking the presidential nomination on a personal liberty plank. Both the wets and drys will be included in the platform, but a wrangle threatens over the form of the plank. Some hold the view that Ireland's hope of freedom lies in the league of nations and that any reference to Irish freedom should be coupled with the demand for ratification of the League covenant. An active lobby will be on the ground late this week to insist that a separate Irish plank be adopted.

IRISH QUESTION

As to the Irish plank, there is a very general feeling among leaders and delegates who are on the ground that some general noncommittal expression of sympathy might well be included in the platform, but a wrangle threatens over the form of the plank. Some hold the view that Ireland's hope of freedom lies in the league of nations and that any reference to Irish freedom should be coupled with the demand for ratification of the League covenant. An active lobby will be on the ground late this week to insist that a separate Irish plank be adopted.

DENIES NAVY TO SEIZE OIL

Story of Intent to Use Force Branded as "Nonsense"

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—"Nonsense" was the term applied by Admiral Hugh Rodman, commander of the Pacific fleet, to the allegation that the United States navy had threatened to land marines at Los Angeles harbor and seize fuel oil from the plant of the General Petroleum Cofin unless the company would sell fuel oil to the navy at the government's price. It was announced that Commander Henry de S. Mel, supply officer of the fleet, and Admiral Spencer Wood, were today attending to legal matters resulting from the temporary order issued yesterday by Judge R. P. Bledsoe in the United States district court and returnable Monday, restraining Commander Mel from taking the oil. "The navy wants to co-operate with business interests," said the admiral, "and some oil companies have been very fine in co-operating with the navy. But the navy must have oil. The price is outside my jurisdiction. That is a matter for Washington. The official price of $11 a barrel is a hang-over from war time. Proper compensation will be made after delivery. We have no intention whatever of using force to obtain a supply for the navy."

WARN OF RIOTING

Fear Outbreak at Funeral of Waterbury Strike Victim

WATERBURY, CONN.—(By United Press)—Police and state militia men on guard here to prevent further disorder during the funeral of 15,000 brass workers Wednesday warned against any attempt to stage a demonstration in connection with the funeral services for striker Liberto Liso, killed Monday in an affray with police. Meetings of strikers and picketing are forbidden except under special permits by the police department. The strike now is in its seventh week, though a few of the strikers receive strike benefits. To carry the strike thus far has cost the strikers $1,000,000, according to estimates of Secretary Thomas Moore, of the Waterbury Chamber of Commerce. This is based on an average wage of $5 per day. Practically all of the factories in Waterbury are affected.

DEMOCRATS WILL NOT "STRADDLE" ISSUES

Leaders Unite to Avoid Charge Of Sidestepping

ASSUME CLEAR-CUT STAND

Platform Without Equivocation Is Favored

SAN FRANCISCO (By United Press)—This is an administration convention—so far. Not only have most of the early arrivals been ardent administration supporters, but all the pre-convention machinery and the greater part of the pre-convention activities have been directed by them. Such anti-administration rumblings as have served to disturb the serenity of the Wilsonian campaign at the Palace Hotel have come from the outside. And they have had little more effect than Tuesday's earthquake at Los Angeles. MAY NOT NAME BRYAN
William Jennings Bryan is very apt to find on his hands what may interfere with the successful prosecution of any campaign he may have planned against the enactment of Wilsonian principles in the platform, for it was reported that Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, had finally framed up a deal whereby Bryan would not be named as the state's representative on the resolutions committee.

SENTIMENT CRISTALIZES

Among the administration leaders here there is a general support of Postmaster General Burleson's declaration at Antonio, in favor of "an open, honest stand on the great issues now confronting the country." And among delegates generally, regardless of their individual views about the league of nations, prohibition, labor, government ownership, etc., sentiment is appreciably crystallizing in the direction of such a pronouncement of party principles as will obviate any possible charge of "straddling." Even Senator Robert Owen, whose views can scarcely be said to run parallel with the president's, and who is the first occupant of "presidential row," has declared in favor of a plank without equivocation. No matter whether it meets his views in its entirety or not.

'WOMAN IN BLACK' IS CALLED

Will Be Questioned by Attorney in Elwell Murder Case.

NEW YORK (By United Press)—Miss Elly Hope Anderson was requested by District Attorney Swann Wednesday to come to New York from her home in Minneapolis to tell what she knows of incidents preceding the murder of Joseph Bowne Elwell, whist expert. Miss Anderson, companion of Victor Von Schlegell at a dinner the eve of the murder, is expected to tell the district attorney of a meeting between her and Elwell. The latter was with Viola Kraus, divorced wife of Von Schlegell. In interviews since her name was mentioned in the case, Miss Anderson has said that the meeting between the two men was entirely cordial. SEEMS TO FIX TIME
In questioning Miss Anderson the district attorney hopes to establish more definitely just what time she went to her apartment after the dinner at the Ritz Carlton. In interviews, she placed the time at about 9:45 p. m., in which Swann said "she was probably mistaken." Von Schlegell said it was considerably later. Another point on which the district attorney wished to question Miss Anderson was regarding the breakfast on Friday, the morning following. Von Schlegell said he and Miss Anderson breakfasted together. Following the breakfast Miss Anderson left for the depot to take a train for Minneapolis. MISS ANDERSON TO RETURN
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(By United Press)—"My mysterious woman in black from Minneapolis," prepared Wednesday to return to New York city to add her mite of information concerning the mystery surrounding the murder of Elwell, whist expert and turfman. Miss Anderson said she first met Von Schlegell at a tea given by Mrs. Esther Lee Sutton, New York city, and later learned he was a former neighbor in Minneapolis.

300 PLANTS FACE SHUTDOWN

YOUNGSTOWN — (By Associated Press.)—Sheet and tin plate factories which have contracts with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, face a shutdown on June 30 as the result of the failure to reach an agreement between the Amalgamated and the manufacturers at the conference held in Atlantic City, according to Secretary J. H. Nutt, of the Western Bar Iron Association who returned from Atlantic City in addition bar iron plants run under Amalgamated contracts are threatened with a suspension on July 31.

There are 300 sheet and tin plate mills in the Mahoning valley, around Youngstown, employing about 25,000 men, all under Amalgamated contracts. Only one bar iron mill, the A. M. Byers plant at Girard would be affected in this district. Mr. Nutt who represented both the bar iron and sheet and tin plate manufacturers said that there was "hope" for another conference before the end of the month though no conference had been arranged as yet. The disagreement, it was said, in each case was over the "memorandum of agreement" which involved the right of the Amalgamated to organize all the crafts in plants signing the agreements. The wages had been agreed upon with a ten per cent increase for the workers.

G.O.P. CONVENTION PLANS UPSET

Lenroot Stated for Vice Presidency Choice by Leaders

OREGON MAN MAKES CHANGE

West Knows Coolidge Better Than Harding Now

(BY DAVID LAWRENCE)

PORTLAND, Ore., — Harding and Lenroot was to have been the Republican ticket and the committee might have prevailed at Chicago, but for the interference of Wallace McCamant, delegate from Oregon, who spoiled the plans of the Old Guard by nominating Governor Coolidge at the psychological moment when the entire convention was wearing of building and the name of the Massachusetts governor seemed to enter a popular field for vice-presidency.

Shortly after the nomination of Senator Harding, relates Mr. McCamant, who has not returned from the Chicago convention, "the word was passed around that Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin was to be his running mate. In common with other members of the Oregon delegation, I did not realize the significance of this move for several reasons. In the first place, Lenroot had a prominent part some years ago in the fight to dispose John C. Spooner, one of the strongest and best political figures Wisconsin ever had in favor of Robert M. La Follette. Further than that, his record was more than good. I felt that we must look for a change from those where Americanism in fact was during the great test. Together with other members of the Oregon delegation, we talked the matter over during the two minutes that we had and then, Cerey, of Oregon, suggested that I nominate Governor Coolidge as Oregon's choice.

"Having this time some one had nominated Lenroot and when I jumped on top of a chair with the idea of nominating the Massachusetts governor, I think the chairman thought I wanted to second Lenroot's nomination. At any rate, he recognized me readily in spite of the uproar that he was in, and all I had time to say was mostly that the citizens of Oregon had instructed the Oregon delegation to nominate one of the great citizens of Massachusetts (Senator Lodge) for vice-president, but inasmuch as that statesman had asked that his name not be used, we wished to place in nomination the name of another Massachusetts great leader, Governor Coolidge. When the Massachusetts members heard the name, they went wild. Unmindful of chairs and shouted the name of Coolidge.

"From many points throughout the hall came shouts in my nomination and when the roll was called it was soon evidenced that I had touched a popular chord. The action was entirely spontaneous, and ten minutes before I jumped to my feet nothing was further from my mind or from the minds of the other members of the Oregon delegation. "While I had not met Governor Coolidge personally, I had obtained a great deal of information about him and became convinced that he possessed the qualification which is perhaps above all else in this time of unrest, namely, unquestioned Americanism.

"The testimony of Mr. McCamant squares indeed with what was observed from the press box in Chicago and reveals for the first time what was behind the movement for Coolidge.

"The someone who had nominated Lenroot" was Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, who was later disturbed when Alexander Moore, of Pittsburgh, jumped to his feet and seconded the nomination of Coolidge in behalf of Pennsylvania. This caused McCormick to rush over to the Pennsylvania delegation to find out what was the trouble. He a led Governor Sproul, who was chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation, what it all meant. Senator Penrose was understood to have agreed to the nomination of Lenroot. But the seconding had already been done and Mr. Moore's prestige in the Pennsylvania delegation was such that in conference he could back of him could not be passed to the Pennsylvania delegation soon enough and the action taken was soon reversed.

By the time Senator McCormick and Governor Sproul finished talking the movement for Coolidge was in full swing and could not be stopped so the leaders accepted Coolidge after all. They had no objection to the Massachusetts governor in the first instance. Their idea was to advance Lenroot as a put a western progressive on the ticket, who would contribute strength from Wisconsin and give a west of the Mississippi. It was believed that two conservatives would not make a strong ticket. On the other hand, now that it is all over, many Republicans feel that it might have been a mistake to put two United States senators on the ticket as it might have lent color to the charge that a handful of men in the United States senate controlled the Republican national convention.

Indeed, in many parts of the west Coolidge is better known than Harding and some Republicans say that the convention "put the cart before the horse." But in Oregon the ticket is popular enough to carry the state without much trouble. That's the outlook in huge even here. The Democrats have named their candidates.

COX IS BOOSTED EVERYWHERE

General Wood in the army, is in charge on the first section.

While your correspondent was engaged in assisting to get material for the Big Four Daily for this day, Mrs. Frank H. Kneang in car 4, Section 1, presented him with a rainbow and a house shoe, with her best wishes for all the members of the staff.

Crossing Missouri and Kansas, one sees very few farm houses. Farms are large, crop, look fine and rains have been plentiful. There is evidence of prosperity everywhere.

Altho for the most part the members of this party are old line politicians, politics is almost a taboo subject on the trip. Everybody is bent on talking in the rights along the line and having a good time as one big happy family. There'll not be a great amount of "political junk" here here until the party nears San Francisco, Saturday.

If the fellow back in Allen, who are not feeling as candidates for nomination for office could have back of them the efforts of such a bunch of hearties, they are speeding toward San Francisco for Governor Cox, they would not need to worry about "getting somewhere."

Hope Bill Henry and his crew of local leg-layers will sell the city hall before this comes to an end and also that they will get those O. E. franchises out of their systems and decided to surface. Mainst. But of course this is probably asking for too much at one time.

If Uncle Sam moves news letters back eastward across the continent as quickly as this party of Cox boosters is being projected toward Frisco, they'll be able to get a difficult job keeping up a running fire of letters all the way from Dayton to Frisco.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION PURCHASES CITY BONDS

The city of Lima was saved $3,884.45 when the state industrial commission agreed Tuesday to accept a $101,500 issue of special assessment refunding bonds, according to City Auditor David L. Rupert.

When bids were opened on the bonds Saturday only one offer was received, that of W. L. Clayton & Co., of Toledo, and in order to accept the bonds they requested that the city pay at the time of acceptance $3,884.45 to cover cost of printing, brokerage and other incidental expenses of marketing.

According to Rupert the necessity of obtaining bonds not later than July 1 would have compelled the city to accept the bid of Clayton & Co., had not the industrial commission come to its relief.

SHRINERS MEET IN PORTLAND

Claims to Be Largest Convention Ever Held

PORTLAND, Ore.—The Forty-sixth session of the Imperial Council of the Order of the Mystic Shrine opened in this city Tuesday, labelling itself "the largest convention ever held by any organization in the United States."

More than 100,000 strangers are this morning the guests of the city of Portland, and will be for three days. With the termination of the Democratic Convention in San Francisco, the "Rose City" expects to be host to an additional thousand of distinguished gentlemen.

The many thousands of Shriners gathered here from every point of the compass, opened their national convention Tuesday morning with a full-dress parade. The procession left the Multnomah Hotel headquarters and marched to the Civic Auditorium, where the Imperial Council convened for the first time in the three days of their stay here.

Portland has donated its ultra-gala dress. For six months she has been preparing herself for the greatest convention in her history. Apropos of the day, Portland's annual Rose Festival has similarly opened today. The city is a veritable bouquet of roses, harmonizing with the brilliant hues of the Shriners' uniforms.

Wednesday night the City of Portland will conduct its electric parade in honor of its guests. Flotsam and jetsam with the floats of the Columbia River gorge and the Willamette Valley, will be operated in the nocturnal parade, strung together by a myriad of electric lights. The floats will tell a story, a moving picture, so to speak, of an Oriental legend, it being left to the spectator to fathom the message of the tale.

Thursday night the Shriners will respond with its own parade. Another parade will feature the third day, when the Rose Festival proper opens. Both the Shriners and the City of Portland will participate in this parade.

SAVE MONEY, BOYS

You Can Buy Fireworks Next Saturday, Mayor Says

Save all your pennies until Saturday, July 3 if you expect to have a regular humming of a fourth of July celebration. Until that date, according to an official order of the mayor the sale of fireworks will be prohibited. But at noon July 3 the lid is off and all stores in Lima handling them will have permission to sell anything up to the size of a two-inch salute.

"This gives a wide enough range to make sufficient noise for young America," said Mayor Burkhardt, "and yet is not large enough to do any great damage."

The prohibition of the sale of fireworks until Saturday is to be rigidly enforced by police as a measure for the prevention of fire. Wherever there is fireworks there is a fire hazard, according to the mayor.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP ADVOCATED

Zionists Propose Platform For Jewish Palestine

DESIRE INDIVIDUAL STATE

Will Not be Satisfied With Duplicate of Others

LONDON—(By Associated Press)

Public ownership of land, a cooperative commonwealth, and equal rights for all, were advocated here as the three leading principles in the special program American Zionists desire incorporated in the project for a Jewish Homeland in Palestine, by Jacob de Haas executive secretary of the Zionist Organization of America. Mr. de Haas arrived in London with United States Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis, honorary president of the Zionist Organization of America; Judge Julian W. Mack, president; Nathan Straus, Mrs. Mary Fels, Professor Felix Frankfurter, Captain Abraham Tulin, David Rosenblum and Louis Lipsky, organization secretary. These are the advance guard of the 39 delegates of American Zionists to the World Zionist Conference, convening in London July 4.

American Zionists will make a united effort to have the Pittsburgh program, which they adopted in 1918 as the guiding social principles for the Jewish Homeland approved by the World Conference, in the program to formulate the policy to be carried out in Palestine. Mr. de Haas in the statement he gave out on the eve of what is considered the most significant Jewish World conference ever held, stressed the progressive tenets of the Pittsburgh program.

"The Zionists are not going to be satisfied with a Palestine or land of Israel, which will be a mere duplicate of the numerous small states of Europe or South America. They believe that the 2,000 years of suffering and martyrdom of the wandering Jew has given to our race a wealth of experience which, added to the ancient heritage of the Jew, can be made fruitful in the creation of a model settlement in the land of our forefathers."

"The Pittsburgh platform may be summarized as follows: (1) Public Ownership of Land; (2) the Cooperative Commonweal; (3) Equal Rights. The first is expressed in the phrase that the land of Palestine shall be owned or controlled for the benefit of the people of Palestine as a whole. The Zionists of America have resolved that the benefits which come thru increasing land values will not go into the pockets of land speculators, but will always remain 'community values,' which will go into the public treasury."

"The second principle indicates the Zionists of America are resolved to encourage cooperative enterprise to the largest extent possible, so that a cooperative commonwealth may be gradually evolved, without however, crushing individual initiative. There is no simple formula by which the cooperative commonwealth can be achieved—it must be a development thru struggle and experimentation. In any event, we have set the goal."

"The third principle is one with which all Americans are familiar—at least in theory, tho we may fall short in actual practice. Whereas, we confine our program of 'equal rights' to the narrow field of politics, the Zionists of America would apply it to all of Palestine life—to politics and economics, to law and industry, to man and woman, to every set and every creed."

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.
You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Value in Diamonds

Diamonds have become so valuable that even the slightest variations in quality make quite a difference in their worth. Considering this fact it is a matter of wisdom and good judgment to select your dealer right.

How to Judge

Color, shape, cutting and weight all have an important bearing on the value of diamonds. Carbon spots or feathers, if invisible to the naked eye, do not effect their brilliancy greatly. World conditions govern shoe prices, yet American shoes are the world's best value, because of efficiency in manufacture and distribution. ## THE WOMAN WHO LOVED AND EARNED

HAPPINESS

"What happened, Robert?" I asked as I finished putting dinner upon the table.

"Why, one of the clerks proposed to make a showing for children, just sporting goods suitable for the young boys and girls also. We went up one of the windows, and it wasn't long before fathers and mothers came in with their kids. The old man" (as Robert always spoke of his employer, without however meaning any disrespect) "wanted to know what I thought of making it sort of a feature. We're going to talk it over in the morning. Kid was dressed up in his tuxedo."

"But what I was getting at was that you were right in your theory that we could always learn. This fellow is only about 17, been in the store only a short time, and none of us gave him credit for being over so bright. But we have learned that it pays to cater to kids. In one day, too—and all thru him."

"My, what a long speech for you, Bob! Come on, I have dumplings cooking."

Ever since Robert had given his consent to my plan, I had taken more than my usual pains to have the house clean and dainty, the meals well cooked and the food, he liked.

I would not allow him to say even once that I neglected him for my work, or that he knew I could not do both well.

"Let's start keeping books, Robert. I think we should now that we are both earners. Let us try and save all we can and still be comfortable."

"I now had another plan in my mind, almost before I had tried the present one. But it was a plan for the future, perhaps a distant future, and would take money."

"All right, Gerry, anything to please you. But dear, I don't want you to go without pretty things—like you used to have—to save out of what you earn."

It was almost an obsession with Robert—this idea that to be happy I must have the same sort of clothes I wore when I was head saleswoman in a fashionable shop, where they were part of my necessary equipment. But, like most men, he had no idea of the real cost of women's clothes, so as long as I could look richly dressed, he would be satisfied.

"I will try to look so you won't be ashamed of me," I laughingly assured him.

I did not explain that one gown—on "dinner" one, perhaps—for my work outside of the house, and my own gowns when at home, simple and affairs I made myself, would cost me anything like what a shop wardrobe had cost. He would be sure to think I was doing them to save. So I proposed:

"Every three months we'll compare our accounts. You'll be surprised how much we will save if we try," I told him.

"Remember, I pay all house expenses."

"Don't worry, dear! I have a scheme of my own for my money. I'll only buy my clothes, and the rest I will put away."

As I look back, I think that Robert and I were just beginning to know each other at this time, just beginning to appreciate each other. We were so happy when together, nothing seemed hard any more. I almost forgot that I had nearly lost Robert, his love. And he was so happy, so contented with our simple way of living.

"It seems too good to be true, Gerry," he said one night, as he settled himself with his pipe and evening paper. "Talk about dreams coming true—why, this is better than ever I dreamed, and I did a lot of dreaming!"

"We are happy, aren't we?" I stopped washing dishes long enough to press my lips to his hair. When I would not allow him to help me, he always sat in the kitchen and smoked until I had finished. He declared he was lonesome in the other room alone.

Often we visited the girls and had them with us for the evening; alone, and spent the evening reading aloud talking over his work at the store. His ideas for making the business of his employer more successful.

Of my own work I said little. I had not forgotten how he claimed a woman could not forget the business part of life if she were a business woman; and one part of my plan was to efface my business from our home life.

(Tomorrow—Bob's Great News.)

LOVE AND MARRIED LIFE

By DAFF MCGLONE GIBSON

RUTH SURPRISES ME

The poem "Which" I knew meant to my husband the contrast between his desire for Elizabeth Moreland and his love for me. It was the first thing I had seen since my marriage to John that made me think of the man with whom I had fallen so desperately and quickly in love, in contrast to the man I had married.

It showed me clearly that there are two natures in every man—one the primitive, which responds to the one great law of the universe—the hunter who must ever enjoy the sport of the chase—and the other one which man has developed thru centuries of groping for something that is higher and better than instinct.

The poem was beautiful. Something in me responded to:

"When I look into those wells of truth, her eyes.

My soul leaps out from its hiding place of clay to her bidding."

I smiled at whatever John Gordon's soul might have done when he looked into my eyes I never could remember when it flew "to do my bidding."

Just an Unruly Boy
Poor John, he's just a little unruly boy; a boy who has always had his own way, always felt that he was supreme; a boy who has always been able to talk back to his mother and sister, and yet, who deep in his heart, felt superior to both.

How much happier a man would be if, instead of this eternal warring with the opposite sex, he accepted a woman at her true valuation and made her his comrade and his friend, instead of treating her always as a plaything or servant.

I read the poem once more. It was beautiful. It had more real human nature in it than the one which Karl Shepard had sent me. Again I felt the old time thrill which had never wholly vanished and which returned when John was near and kind to me. It was probably ably because of this that I have lived with John Gordon as long as I have. Since we were married John has seemed to feel that it is not quite manly to make love to me any more. He had forgotten all about "what should be" in the ever present "is."

I presume to some women the finding of that scrap of paper would have caused a greater hurt than anything else he had ever done. The mere fact that John acknowledged there was a chance of choice between us might have made another woman jealous and unhappy. But I confess that I would much rather be the queen of his soul than the minister to, or the companion of his senses and I was rather complimented.

But I believe that I could be both if he would let me. I see no reason why a man's wife should not be all in all to him. Because most men hold different opinions is perhaps the greatest reason that we have one divorce in every eight marriages.

Will Understand Each Other

"Oh, my dear, my dear," I said as I snatched up my baby, who was crying in her cradle, "surely I will never have any such problems with you. You and I still understand each other. You will always know that mother means the best for you. You will always understand her experience will help you over all your troubles." Then again I laughed mirthlessly as I thought that probably down deep in John's heart he had the same feeling that I should understand that everything he did was the best for me as I expected my baby would understand.

I laid my baby back in its cradle. I read resolved to go back and fight for my own—to make John feel as he did when he first fell in love with me.

In spite of all that everyone may say about the impossibility of warming our love I am going to make John fall in love with me all over again. And while I am doing it I am going to try and make him understand that the love that I am asking from him and being so disappointed because I do not receive it, is but a part of the experience of marriage—and marriage is but a part of the experience of life.

One thing, however, I am going to try to make myself as well as John understand, and that is that love may be for a week, a month or a year, but marriage is for every day and all time. I am going to work for the love of my husband, but I am going to try to achieve a successful marriage for myself.

Alice has achieved it—why may not I?

Ruth's marriage was a failure because she made motherhood instead of wifehood her goal. Marriage includes both being wife and mother. As I was thinking of Ruth she illustrated the old adage, "Thinking of angels you hear the rustle of their wings," for she passed my window on the other side of the street with Cousin Charles.

Surprised at Deference

I wasn't surprised to see her with Charles, but I was certainly surprised to see how deferentially he bent over her, and to note the smile she gave him.

This time she was not thinking of her children to the exclusion of everything else for with sudden terror I saw tiny Ruth, who had been walking along by her mother's side, suddenly dart out almost in front of an automobile. The mother did not notice the child's danger until Charles flashed quickly in front of her, brushing her aside with such sudden force that she almost fell to the sidewalk, and snatched the baby almost from under the wheels.

There was a great commotion. Ruth shrieked as Charles stumbled and fell, flinging the child from him. John, who had evidently seen the

A GRILLING FROM MOTHER

It was nature that saved the evening, or rather us. Nature in the shape of one of the worst thunderstorms that I have ever lived thru.

As we were in each other's arms a tremendous clap of thunder almost tore us apart with the shock.

In a moment, Cecil was on his feet and tossing me from the depths of his arms into the car. The lightning was fearful, and just as we got a fair start the rain came in torrents.

We managed to make a small hotel before the worst came, however, and here we sat and watched the lightning play over the hills and water, and Cecil leaned on the table and went off into a trance.

At about ten o'clock the storm subsided, and we crawled out into the night once more. At the very best we could not get home until shockingly late and I trembled at the thought of the explosion that awaited us at the other end!

We tore along at a grand pace, and once Cecil stopped the car and said: "Oh, Lindsey, don't make me take you home at all; run off and marry me now, darling. I want you—how I want you!"

I covered my face with my hands, for those were the words I had longed to hear my Jack say, and live up to.

"We mustn't, Cecil. It isn't fair—you know how things are, dear," I said as gently as I could. But somehow his want and need for me were so great that they stole thru me, and affected me more than I cared to believe possible. For the present I was glad that I was not to be married for some time to come. It would give me time to weigh things carefully before taking the step. I was beginning to realize that deep reflection was most necessary. Time alone could prove to me what I most needed and whether I really loved someone or not. Time and separation.

So Cecil begged me not to feel sad at what he said, but to always remember that he never would or could do anything to hurt me. We drove home the rest of the way in silence. The nearer we got to the house the more my courage failed me. It was one-thirty, and mother would be in a terrible state.

Finally we arrived and Cecil let me in, then drove off with the car. Sure enough, mother was up and waiting. As I got to the head of the first landing she called to me.

And what mother didn't let me hear about myself and wicked nature in the next few minutes! She was furiously angry with Cecil for suggesting this trip to me, and threatened to write to his people and expose him for a cad, etc., etc. Well, I let the storm travel its course. Said but little, until mother went a bit too far—then I held my head very high and told her that I would, rid her house of my presence forever, the first thing in the morning.

After all, it was too much of a good thing to be so grilled. Cecil and I had done no harm, and here was I being treated like a first-class criminal—for no reason. Truly, the only thing was to run away.

I went to my room and a long time afterwards I heard Cecil coming upstairs very softly. For an instant I heard him halt at my door and the pen in my hand trembled—then I heard something crackling and he passed on.

I walked over and saw a piece of paper pushed under the door. I picked it up—it was from him—and on it was written in a shaky hand those beautiful words of the greatest of all poets:

"Your heart has trembled to my tongue.

Your hand in mine has lain, Your lips to mine have held and clung.

Again and yet again, my dear; again and yet again.

EPIDEMIC OF HOME RUNS STRIKES MAJOR LEAGUES--SEVEN IN ONE DAY

DAUBERT'S CIRCUIT DRIVE WINS FOR CINCINNATI--CLEVELAND INDIANS AMASS TWENTY SAFE BINGLES--RUTH SITS BY AND LOOKS ON

By Joe Bernstein

SEVEN LIKE Babe Ruth hit home runs today in the big leagues. The first all doing it now.

From the looks of the home runs, it is probable that a man wouldn't be able to get in the season, and it is probable of home runs the pill for four boys in most every game.

The first home runs of the season were hit by Daubert of the Cubs, and Ruth and Garvey of the Senators, were the lucky chaps who got the four sacks.

In practically every case, the home runs were hit in the bottom of the ninth, and the pitcher was in a desperate struggle to get the game over.

And on top of all this, the home runs were hit in the bottom of the ninth, and the pitcher was in a desperate struggle to get the game over.

And on top of all this, the home runs were hit in the bottom of the ninth, and the pitcher was in a desperate struggle to get the game over.

And on top of all this, the home runs were hit in the bottom of the ninth, and the pitcher was in a desperate struggle to get the game over.

CINCINNATI'S DOING WELL

Considering the fact that the Cincinnati Reds are doing well, it is probable that a man wouldn't be able to get in the season, and it is probable of home runs the pill for four boys in most every game.

CARPENTIER HAS TO COME BACK

Looks like the problem of getting Carpentier back to the ring is a hard one. The French champion is a brawler from "B" to "K". Since the arrival in the United States to add Jack Dempsey to their list of victims, both Frenchmen have made so many contradictory statements that they have almost ceased to be considered.

Out of charity and good sportsmanship Americans are believing that thru unfamiliarity with the English language the European champion and his managers didn't know what they were saying when they voiced that frequent "we will fight any time."

While the world's champion was awaiting trial, the fans bore with Carpentier and considered his invasion of the ring as a legitimate field for recouping a lost fortune.

Then came the desire to see Carpentier show something for the money that sport loving Americans were pouring into his coffers. Even if it did smell of a mouse, the announcement of a fight with Dempsey gave the impression that Carpentier was at least sincere in his promises to fight.

But when the Frenchman called off the fight and announced they were returning home in July, the hands of freedom went up.

Descamps said they would return in the fall to fight. But after so many conflicting stories, the fans are allowed to place any construction on that statement they desire.

The impression right now in eastern circles is that Carpentier will never return if he gets away this time. Descamps was quoted in London papers with a statement to that effect. He said he did not want to fight in America, according to the story.

When Dempsey was acquitted, Descamps rushed to the newspapers and challenged the champion.

But there's another, better way of challenging under the new Walker Bill.

The office of the International sporting club is the place to file a challenge. The new law makes that the official way of getting action out of a champion.

If Descamps is sincere and if Carpentier wants to fight Dempsey, let them challenge thru the international sporting club.

Officials of the club are ready to reserve the challenge. It is not up to Dempsey to seek this match. It is up to Descamps.

TY ISN'T WORRYING

Ty Cobb, who started the season with one of the best of speels of hitting he has ever experienced, is beginning to climb in the batting list. Ty still has quite a ways to go to get up with Speaker, Jackson and the other leaders, but he isn't worrying. Ty always took plenty of time to hit his stride and the fact that this year he failed to get going in the first six weeks of the campaign didn't leave him.

Homers by Roth and Garhart helped the Senators subdue the Tigers 6 to 1.

The Pirates walloped three Brooklyn pitchers and won 9 to 7, shoving the Dodgers into third place.

CARPENTIER OFFERS BOXING FANS, PUZZLE

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK. — It used to be the well known "Chinese puzzle" that was hard to solve.

It used to be a hard task that was allotted to the equally well known "Philadelphia Lawyer."

But the King of all hard guesses is the French puzzle facing American fight fans.

As embodied in Francois Descamps and Georges Carpentier, the French puzzle is a baffler from "B" to "K".

Since the arrival in the United States to add Jack Dempsey to their list of victims, both Frenchmen have made so many contradictory statements that they have almost ceased to be considered.

Out of charity and good sportsmanship Americans are believing that thru unfamiliarity with the English language the European champion and his managers didn't know what they were saying when they voiced that frequent "we will fight any time."

While the world's champion was awaiting trial, the fans bore with Carpentier and considered his invasion of the ring as a legitimate field for recouping a lost fortune.

Then came the desire to see Carpentier show something for the money that sport loving Americans were pouring into his coffers. Even if it did smell of a mouse, the announcement of a fight with Dempsey gave the impression that Carpentier was at least sincere in his promises to fight.

But when the Frenchman called off the fight and announced they were returning home in July, the hands of freedom went up.

Descamps said they would return in the fall to fight. But after so many conflicting stories, the fans are allowed to place any construction on that statement they desire.

The impression right now in eastern circles is that Carpentier will never return if he gets away this time. Descamps was quoted in London papers with a statement to that effect. He said he did not want to fight in America, according to the story.

When Dempsey was acquitted, Descamps rushed to the newspapers and challenged the champion.

But there's another, better way of challenging under the new Walker Bill.

The office of the International sporting club is the place to file a challenge. The new law makes that the official way of getting action out of a champion.

If Descamps is sincere and if Carpentier wants to fight Dempsey, let them challenge thru the international sporting club.

Officials of the club are ready to reserve the challenge. It is not up to Dempsey to seek this match. It is up to Descamps.

ENGLISH LEARNING YANK BASEBALL SLANG

LONDON. — The Daily Express is giving its readers lessons in baseball slang.

The national pastime of the United States has become very popular here. Nines have been formed by Americans and Canadians who remained in Great Britain after the war and also by the American Rhodes scholars at Oxford. The Daily Express prints the following table of familiar phrases used by American readers and their English equivalent:

Ataboy — Splendid fellow.

Rean the Umpire — Kill the referee.

Hot Stuff — Well played.

Swat the Pill — Hit the ball vigorously.

NOW MOVIES ARE GETTING BLAME

No Proof, However, That They Cause Juvenile Delinquency

ONCE IT WAS DIME NOVELS

Pictures Do Cause Boredom if Not Interesting

By Esther Wagner.

It is a well-known fact that the blame for juvenile delinquency is being shown generally, are directly responsible for much of the juvenile delinquency of today. Says a movie report to General Federation of Women's Clubs, in session at Des Moines, Ia.

A century ago, when books first became widely read, novels — any books were held directly responsible for juvenile delinquency.

Later on, it was only paper-back thrillers which were held responsible — the "dime novels."

DANCING

Once it was the waltz. Now, some new dances. Always it is the newest that is accused.

And always it is something diverting, at popular gatherings, delinquency blamed on representations, imitations or anything which is new.

When dime novels were being blamed, the responsibility was easily established. If a boy ran away, or wrote a window, and had been reading dime novel, it was assumed that the novels caused it.

I wonder if those who blame juvenile delinquency on the movies are any better way of proving the movies are responsible?

Human motives are obscure and hard to follow. But one thing is certain. That is boredom — in event a picture lacks interest.

A movie reviewer soon or later, to wonder why scenes of such are so necessary to a movie.

If this reviewer rises in her seat one night, throws something at the screen, and is arrested, it will be because of just one movie, without any scene of courtship than she would want. That will be what makes her delinquent!

Judge's Testimony Most Convincing

Says That He Takes Pleasure in Reporting That He Was Benefitted by Nerv-Worth

"I have used several bottles of Nerv-Worth and take pleasure in reporting that I have been greatly benefited by its use and I therefore recommend the medicine."—A. D. M'Corle, Mr. M'Corle was formerly judge of police court, Charleston, W. Va., and is a highly respected and well-known citizen of that city. A statement such as the above, coming from a man such as Mr. M'Corle, carries great weight. Nerv-Worth has been endorsed by men and women in practically all walks of life. They praise it because it does the work. Nerv-Worth aids digestion, whets the appetite, neutralizes poisonous acids, drives out impurities, gives nerve force, restores restful sleep, and banishes other ills attending stomach and nervous disorders. If you suffer or your condition is rundown, do not hesitate to take the Nerv-Worth way to health, as millions of others have done before you. It will help you and if it doesn't help you, after you taken a bottle according to directions your druggists is authorized to refund your money. See the Nerv-Worth expert at Hunter's Drug Store.

Studebaker

SERIES 20 SPECIAL-SIX

Sharp, nerve-racking jolts over rough roads are unknown to the driver of the SPECIAL-SIX. Semi-elliptic springs are directly under the frame—underslung in the rear, of best quality vanadium steel, and unusually long.

Ask us about the gasoline and tire mileage SPECIAL - SIX owners are getting.

50-H. P. detachable-head motor; 119-inch wheel base, giving maximum comfort for five passengers. All Studebaker Cars are equipped with Cord Tires—another Studebaker precedent.
